

WEEKLY REPORT
05/26/13-06/01/13

Alumni Weekend and Newark Day went off very smoothly. The Newark Police Department did not receive any complaints of noise during Mug Night. Newark Day had only a few minor issues that Lt. Hargrove will address in his after action report.

Several Newark Police Officers were honored and acknowledged this week. Corporal Darryl Saunders was awarded an honorary degree from Newark High School at the graduation ceremony. Cpl. Saunders has been assigned to the school district as the School Resource Officer for the past five years. He is returning to the patrol division at the end of this school semester.

Officer Paul Lawrence was awarded the Lions Club Officer of the Year Award. The award was presented by the Lions Club and Chief Tiernan at the annual awards dinner on Tuesday evening.

Corporal Greg D'Elia was featured in a Newark Post article about the day in the life of a Newark Police Officer. The headline of the article was "For Newark cop, police work is in his blood." Cpl. D'Elia has received many positive comments from his co-workers about the article.

Lieutenant Kevin Feeney is working with the University of Delaware Police Department on a joint agency alcohol initiative. The goal of the program is "...to reduce the amount of underage drinking that occurs on and off campus, reduce excessive alcohol consumption, and address order maintenance issues that affect the city and university communities." Education, outreach, and enforcement will be used to help achieve these goals. Officers hope to partner with other key agencies such as Delaware Alcohol Tobacco Enforcement, Office of Highway Safety, Alderman's Court, City of Newark building inspectors, and the UD Office of Student Conduct.
