

WEEKLY REPORT
01/05/14-01/11/14

Background investigations and interviews continue for the open police position. The Delaware State Police Academy is scheduled to begin on February 24th.

In the January 12th edition of the "News Journal" there was a nice article on the continuing reduction of crime in Newark over the past seven years. The article mentioned that Newark's violent crime rate, along with other cities in Delaware, is above the national norm. The article did not note that the majority of residential college towns across the country have higher than average crime rates due to the unique demographics. The article also mentioned that alcohol offenses remain steady. Many of our alcohol arrests are due to proactive policing such as party patrols, Cops in Shops, Homecoming and Saint Patrick's Day enforcement, etc. The fact that the number remains steady means that our officers continue to be aggressively patrolling and taking enforcement action.

A few months ago, Patrol Lieutenant Kevin Feeney completed an after action report regarding the "I'm Shmacked" incident. UDPD has suggested a joint review of the incident. On February 6th, members of the command staff from both departments will meet at the university to review the incident and police response.

Lieutenant Feeney, Sergeant Aniunas, and Sergeant VanCampen have recently begun the West Point Command and Leadership course. This extensive multi-month training course is considered one of the premier practical training programs in the country.
