Newark's Winter Storm Salt Supply

Newark, DE (February 24, 2014) – The City of Newark's current salt supply is enough to cover one winter storm. An additional shipment of salt is not expected until March 7. In an effort to make the salt last longer, the City will be reducing the application rate and applying salt more sparingly. Because of the low salt supply, areas where the City may usually apply salt may not be salted until the March 7 delivery in order to ensure there is enough salt for primary roads and dangerous locations. Sand is being looked into as an additional means of stretching the salt supply.
